

Meet your CFMT Relationship Manager

Amy Fair

Amy serves as Director of Philanthropic Services, where she oversees relationships with major donors, foundations, corporations, and government partners through the Foundation's Enhanced Philanthropic Services. With nearly 25 years of experience, she specializes in family philanthropy, planned giving, and private foundation services, drawing on her skills as a Certified Advisor with 21/64. She works closely with many of CFMT's significant donors, including multi-generational families, helping them plan their legacies and engage the next generation in giving.

Known for her curiosity, problem-solving ability, and deep institutional knowledge, Amy has opened more than 150 charitable funds and frequently collaborates with professional advisors through philanthropic presentations.

Beyond her role, Amy enjoys Nashville's greenways, arts, and cultural offerings, and has been active as a fundholder and participant in the Women's Fund's Girls Give Initiative. She is also a founding member of Impact100 Nashville, a women's giving circle that has granted more than $1 million over the past eight years.

Fun Facts about Amy

What's a new interest or skill you learned recently?

My recent training to become a 21/64 Certified Advisor introduced me to new ideas and resources to facilitate multi-generational family conversations around philanthropy, amplified my learning and my excitement around the topic. I immediately bought five new related books after returning from the training.

Destination on my bucket list:

I have always wanted to go to Iceland, and the new direct flight from Nashville will make that happen much more quickly.

Dream Job:

There are only two things I have ever imagined outside working at a community foundation, and they both still relate to philanthropy. The two are working for the Giving Pledge, established by Warren Buffett and Bill and Melinda Gates, or working for the MacArthur Foundation, specifically for the "Genius" Awards activities. These things are different, but related in that both are so inspiring.

Favorite live music venue:

The Basement East, The Blue Room at Third Man Records, and the Ford Theater at the Country Music Hall of Fame are locations where I have seen some of my favorite shows.

Coffee or Tea?

Diet Coke is actually my caffeinated preference. I am not a fan of warm drinks, so coffee or tea don't really grab my attention.
